Some delegates desired nine from East Tennessee, and six from each of the others, as more fair, on account of the predominance of Union street, Edgefield, all of his household and each of the others, as more fair, on acwentiment in the first named.

Mr. Maynard proposed to make the number five from each section, but on the suggestion of Judge Milligan, he reduced the number to three. This motion was agreed to unanimously. All resolutions were ordered to go to this committee without debate. The committee will be announced

Judge Trewhitt offered a series of resolutions opposing any attempt, by the constitution of the State, but favoregates, to be elected by the people, to amend the constitution; also favoring the election of a legislature, congressmen, &c., and the abolition of slavery. The resolutions were offered at so late an hour that we are unable to give them

A delegate from Williamson offered a resolution declaring that all persons who had taken the Amnesty in good faith, and observed it, ought to be allowed to vote; provided neutrality is not to be considered loyalty.

Judge Milligan offered a resolution declaring that the people have, at any time, a right to amend the Constitution, and favoring the submission of the following proposition to a direct vote: ARTICLE FIRST.
